What is XiploTeq?

XiploTeq is a mobile banking solution that makes transacting easy. It allows anyone in the world to make transactions on their mobile device or with a card, instantly. It doesn't matter if you're in a sophisticated, first world environment or in a rural area without nearby banking facilities.

As long as there is internet connectivity, transactions can be made. The app is available to existing banks or as standalone software for retailers, small businesses, organisations and individuals.

Over the past few years XiploTeq has stayed ahead of the mobile banking technology software by continuously updating its software and systems to match and exceed what large mobile network operators are able to offer their customers.

The app is also customizable and its far-reaching functionality includes the ability to transfer money, pay accounts, purchase airtime and pay for services, all via the app or a card (issued upon registration) connected to the same account.

Key features also include:

- Secure, encrypted transactions and account information
- Latest security best practices
- Detailed monitoring and audit capabilities
- Free registration and download from Google Play and Apple Store
- Highly competitive transaction fees
- Instantaneous settlements
- Instantaneous transfers between accounts across the world
- Customisable value-added services, including Micro-Finance
- Mobile Network independent
- White labeled for your business

History of XiploTeq

XiploTeq began as a banking software that was developed to run on community-based payphone networks in Africa.

It was a way for people without bank accounts to transfer money, buy airtime and pay accounts without the need to carry cash.

From there it has developed into an advanced, powerful application that can run independently, or be partnered with financial institutions to provide customers with instant access to their money wherever they are in the world.

By replacing the need for SMS banking, visiting tellers and using ATMs, the XiploTeq system provides a safe, easy-to-use, instant method for managing your money.

In addition, the app makes it easy to transfer money across countries, in any currency.

There is no other money transfer provider that can match the speed, efficiency and reach of the XiploTeq payment gateway.

Mobile

Less than 1% of banks offer mobile banking solutions and in most cases these systems are no more than the ability to transact between existing banking structures.

Consumers are gravitating away from banks, organisations and retailers that cannot offer them an easy platform with instant functionality in a highly mobilized world.

The XiploTeq system is built with this in mind. It works on any mobile platform, from smartphones and tablets to desktop computers and laptops and even designated speed point tellers and POS machines that can be operated in remote locations.

As well as providing seamless transactions between devices, XiploTeq also provides customers with a bank card that can be loaded with money from any mobile device (using the card number) or swiped at a speed point teller or through an enabled POS device.

Thus, even if a customer does not have a mobile device he or she can still transact. This is what banking is going to look like in the next 10 years and it's vital to start now, or become obsolete.

How do you get it?
